He Couldn't Tell a Lie.

By-the-by, a good story is told of Ben. Butler and his notorious honesty. A short time since Ben. Butler and Wendell Phillips had business with the President, and, arm-in-arm, the President of the presi proceeded to call upon him. The President was busy, and sent word that he would see them presently. Phillips and Butler strolled on into the conservatory, in the rear of the wearer. White House, thence into the garden. Butler and Phillips were engaged in an animated conversation upon some topic. Butler became slightly excited.

A large hatchet belonging to the gardener had the expense of wintering her. was beside a tree. Butler casually picked it up, and, while talking, he made several deep gashes with it into some of General Grant's avorite trees. Just at this juncture the President apppeared; Butler hastily secreted it under his coat tail.

After the compliments of the day, the President spied, for the first time, his mutilated trees, and, with tones of vehemence, he inquired who had been cutting and gashing that tree? After a few moments' pause, Butler stepped bravely up to the President, and took him by the hand, saying: "Mr. President, I cannot tell a lie; I cannot tell a lie; Wendell Phillips did it!"

The Bible.

View it in whatever light we may, the Bible is a very surprising phenomenon. This collection of books has taken such a hold on the world as no other. The literature of Greece, which goes up like inceuse from that land of temples and heroic deeds, has not half the influence of this book from a nation alike despised in an cient and modern times. It is read of a Sabbath in all the ten thousand pulpits of our land. In all the temples of Christendom is its voice lifted up week by week. The sun never sets on its gleaming page. It goes equally to the cottage of the plain man and the palace of the cottage of the plain man and the palace of the king. It is woven into the literature of the scholar, and colors the talk of the street The bark of the merchant cannot sail the se without it; no ship of war goes to conflict but the Bible is there. It enters men's closets, GREATLY REDUCED PRICES. mingles in all the grief and cheerfulness of life. The affianced maiden prays God in Scripture for strength in her new duties; men are married by Scripture. The Bible attends them in their sickness, when the fever of the world is on them. The aching heads finds a softer pil-low when the Bible lies underneath. The mariner, escaping from shipwreck, clutches this first of his treasures, and keeps it sacred to God. It goes with the peddler, in his crowded pack; cheers him at eventide, when he sits down dusty and fatigued; brightens the freshness of his morning face. It blesses us when we are born; gives names to half Chris-tendom; rejoices with us; has sympathy for our mourning; tempers our grief to finer issues. It is the better part of our sermons. It lifts man above himself; our best of uttered prayers are in its storied speech, wherewith our fathers and our patriarchs prayed. The timid man, about waking from his dream of life, looks through the glass of Scripture, and his eye grows bright, he does not fear to stand alone, to tread in the way unknown and distant; to take the death-angle by the hand and bid farewell to wife aud babes and home. Mer rest on this their dearest hopes. It tells them of God and of his blessed Son—of earthly duties and of heavenly rest .- Theodore Par-savs : I am astonished that a young woman who i ambitious of a clear, fine skin should drink tea. It is a great enemy to fair complexions Wine, coffee and cocoa may be used without tinging the skin; but as soon as tea-drinking becomes a regular habit the eye of the dis-criminating observer detects it in the skin. Tea compromises the complexion, probably, by deranging the liver. Weak tea or coffee may be used occasionally, in moderate quantity, without harm; and those who live much in the open air, and are occupied with work may drink either in considerable quantities without noticeable harm; but I advise all young women who would preserve a soft, clear skin and quiet nerves to avoid all arinks but cold water. It is an excellent plan to drink one or two glasses of cold water on lying down at greatly reduced prices: at night, and on rising in the morning. If you have good teeth and can help the food into much to your health.

What Girls should Drink. Dr. Dio Lewis, in his book, "Our Girls,"

He invited him to his table, and by a gentle, affable manner, sought to give him good subjects for hospitably enforced was very impressive. He would draw out a young man in conversation, and then assist him to acquire the mastery weil-disposed, religious young men, who would lead him into good paths. He watched over their future career with a father's interest and tenderness, and in a very simple manner accomplished a vast amount of good, besides preventing a world of evil.

Being Drowned.

Some extraordinary mental phenomena occur in drowning. As soon as respiration is sus-pended by the indrawing of water into the lungs, consciousness is immediately suspended. Steamer Blue Wing No. 3 leaves every Tuesday and Friday at 8 A. M. for Louisville.

S. F. J. TRABUE Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, ht saything won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent reme by for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher and higher in their estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to colds and coughs, all should be provided with this antidote for them.

Although settled Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When nothing else could reach them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.

Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.

Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.

Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses.

So generally are its virtues known that we need not publish the certificates of them here, or do more than assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

According to late advices, the French troubles are drawing to a close. Though the telegraph reports a series of successes for the Commune, it is represented that the Government forces have it in their power to take Paris at any moment, and when this is done the war will be virtually ended. Supplies have been cut off from every direction, and the quantity of provision now on hand is alarmingly small. The most serious thing to be regretted in this late strife is the vast injury done to the city of Paris in the spoliation of its renowned churches and many works of art. Paris belonged rather to the whole civilized world than to France. It had drawn tribute from all the rich places of the earth in genius, arts, science, and nature, and t was the home and abiding place of representatives of all nations. No man ever saw the world until he had seen Paris, and when he had once viewed that city thoroughly it was scarcely necessary to go elsewhere in search of variety. It will take a long time to restore the lost features of the abused city, and many of them may never be restored. The late Napoleon did more towards the adornment of the French metropolis than any one man ever did before, and if he were restored now to the throne of France, though

BY Z. F. SMITH, SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.

STATE OF KENTUCKY. OFFICE SUP'T OF FUBLIC INSTRUCTION, FRANKFORT, April 14, 1871.

DEAR SIR: In response to your inquiry, I rould state that article 4, section 6, of school law gives arbitrary "power to lay off, alter, or abolish districts, &c.," to the school commisoner, limited and directed by the provisions

The ruling of this office is, that section 19. article 4, does not grant the right of appeal o any disaffected person, from the act of the ommissioner "laying off, altering, or abolishng a district," providing the said act is done n due form of law.

Section 19 prescribes a general rule of action the commissioner, and grants a general right of appeal from his acts. But section 6 ontains a special grant of power to the commissioner for a special purpose, making this an appeal to the board of education, is manifest. The members of the board are not, and cannot presumed to be, familiar with the necessities of a neighborhood, the topography of the locality, or any of those incidental facts which must be considered in defining and fixing the boundaries of a district.

I would say, however, that there is no work of the commissioner which requires more care and discretion than this; and I trust yours asses, and not be influenced by any of the selfish jealousies, petty intrigues, and faction sm which sometimes spring up with interested and officious parties in the proposed districts. It is too late for any change of a district coundary after April 1st, any way.

Yours, truly, Z. F. SMITH, Superintendent Public Instruction.

Churn More Milk or Skim Deeper. A correspondent of the Mark Lane Express

"From observation, I believe too many butter-makers do not skim as deep or churn as much milk as they ought. I hear them say that they do not like to get so much milk, or sour cream, in with the cream. It is a common practice for most butter-makers to have a skimmer that is perforated with holes, that the milk may pass through into the pan from which the milk is being taken. If any one has a better reason for not skimming deeper, I shall be pleased to hear it, and herewith give my reason why I think we ought to skim deeper and churn more milk with the cream:

First, there are but few dairy-houses so far remote from the odors of the kitchen swill-pail or barrels, or some decaying vegetable matter, as to keep the cream from absorbing odors that injure the flavor of the butter; and the cream must first receive, or have these odors pass through it, before they can reach the milk, as it is most exposed. The milk, therefore, must be pure, and, if churned with the cream, will aid in taking up the odors from the butter. By churning only the cream, the dash of the churn must, as we think, injure the butterglobules and make the butter salvy, as the friction is more directly applied to them than inable to the good; insulting to those with would be the case if milk was mixed with the whom we associate; degrading to the mind;

There are times when the milk sours before all the cream is up; yet the milk must be nearly, if not quite, as good, from the same cow that is being fed the same feed, in a warm morning. But we often get twice the amount of cream in the cool days that we do in the warm days, and the quality is better. Take for instance the 24th of August, a hot, sultry day, the cream hardly paid for the labor. Now, take the 26th of the same month, 1869, a good, cool day, that gave a nice yield of cream. It is to be supposed that there is that difference in the milk produced from the same cow on those days, when the cows were fed in the same pasture, that there was in the amount of butter made from their milk by skimming the cream only. I have thought that when the milk is brought in a heated condition, and placed in a warm room, that perhaps many of the butter-globules were exploded by the heat and that they mingled with the milk like a cohol with water, but to churn all the milk would be to get more butter.

Bed Bug Exterminator

A lady who moved into a house swarming with bed bugs, after cleansing the house, tells w she exterminated the bugs from her bed-

"I took a teaspoonful of quicksilver, costing ten or fifteen cents, which I beat up with the whites of two eggs, just as I would make frosting for cake, or till the quicksilver is thoroughly mixed with the egg. This I applied with a feather to every crack and crevice where a bed bug could hide, after washing the bedsteads in cold water. This I repeated three or four times during the second summer. The result is, I have not seen a bug for two years As the bugs will not stay where the quicksilver is applied faithfully, it is necessary to overhaul the bedding frequently to capture stragglers who are seeking a more healthful

A SIMPLE REMEDY FOR CANCER .- Col. Ussery, of De Soto, La., says that he fully tested a Court convenes Third Monday in February mended to him by a Spanish woman, a native of the country. The remedy is this of De Soto, La., says that he fully tested a remedy for this troublesome disease, recomof the country. The remedy is this:

Take an egg and break it, pour out the white, retaining the yolk by the shell, put in salt and mix with the yolk as long as it will receive it; stir them together until a salve is formed; put a portion of this on a piece of sticking plaster, and apply to the cancer about twice a day. He tried the remedy twice in his own family with entire success. Such a remedy is within the reach of every one, and should be known to the world.

P TO REVIVE FADED BLACK CLOTHES .- Boil three ounces of logwood in a quart of vinegar, and when the color is extracted, drop in a piece of carbonate iron, the size of a large chestnut; let it boil five minutes. Have the articles to be restored well sponged with soap and hot water, laying them on the table, and brush the nap down with a spooge. Then ber. take the dye upon the table and sponge them all over with it, taking care to keep them smooth, and brush downward.

When completely wet with the dye, dissolve a teaspoonful of salaratus in a teacup of warm water and sponge over again with this, which sets the color so completely that nothing rubs off. They must not be wrung or wrinkled, but carefully hung up to drain. The brownest cloth may be made a perfect black in this simcloth may be made a periect black in this state ple manner. So many people have faded garments that this recipe may be of service in Fifth District. Lawrence Gordon—Fourth Posts and December and Decem

NEW REMEDIES FOR BURNS .- Two new remedies for burns are added to the list. The first is charcoal. A piece of vegetable charcoal laid on a burn at once soothes the pain, says the Gazette Medicale, and it kept applied for an hour cures it completely. The second one is sulphate of iron. This was tried by M Joel, in the Children's Hospital, Lausanne. In this case a child, four years of age, had been extensively burned, suppuration was abundant and so offensive that they ordered the child a tepid bath, containing a couple of pinches of sulphate of iron. This gave immediate relief to the pain, and being repeated twice a daytwenty minutes each bath—the suppuration decreased, lost its odor, and the child was soon decreased, lost its odor, and the child was soon decreased. convalescent .- Medical Press and Circular.

FLAVOR AND COLOR OF EGGS.—There is a vast difference in the flavor of eggs. Hens fed on clean, sound grain, and kept on a clean grass run, give much finer flavored eggs than hens do that have access to stables and manure heaps and eat all kinds of filthy food. Hens feeding on fish or onions flavor their eggs accordingly—the same as cows eating onions, or cabbage, or drinking offensive water, im parts a bad taste to the milk and butter. The richer the food the higher the color of the Wheat and corn give the best color, while feeding on buckwheat makes the eggs colorless, rendering them unfit for some confectionary purposes .- Country Gentlemen.

NEURALGIA .- A correspondent of the Lancet says: "A few years ago, when in China, I became acquainted with the fact of the natives, when suffering with facial neuralgia, using oil of peppermint, which they lightly applied to the seat of pain with a camer-hair pencil. Since then, in my own practice, I frequently apply this oil as a local anæsthetic, not only in neuralgia, but in gout, with remarkably

The Scientific American, in answer to a correspondent, gives the following simple but useful rule for computing the relative power of flowing streams: "The motive powers of streams, flowing equal volumes of water, will be directly at their falls. If a stream through which a given volume, at a given point, flow ten feet, produce at that point one hundred horse power, the same volume falling at another point twenty feet would yield two hun dred horse power. The horse power of any body of falling water is the weight in pounds which falls per minute multiplied into the distance in feet through which it falls, and the product divided by 33,000."

Don't keep in a constant fret about things that may be annoying, or worry about things you cannot help. Troubles are not lightened by fretting. The true remedy is to keep cool and try to master difficulties, and not let them master you.
